

Abstract

The present invention relates in part to compositions comprising salts of an analgesic agent and an oil, and methods of using and making the same. In certain embodiments, the compositions may be used as part of a treatment regimen to alleviate pain.